PREFACE.

THE publisher received so many kind words last year from publishers, dealers and collectors that he has been encouraged to issue a second edition of "The American Philatelic Press Directory."

Like the 1887 edition, it is not claimed that this one is entirely free from errors. Every possible effort has been made, however, to secure accuracy in all statements. If any errors are discovered the publisher will be glad to have them pointed out, in order that they may not be repeated in future editions.

Some additions have been made this year, the most important being the list of all American philatelic publications ever issued. This last has been compiled by Mr. GUSTAV AUE, of the Collector's Ledger, and has been made as complete as possible. Additions and corrections are invited from all.

It has also been thought best to print a list of some of the more prominent foreign publications, and a "Personal Directory" has been added.

Some of the papers given place in the last edition have dropped out, but many still remain, while the names of many new ones may be noticed.

The publisher wishes to extend his thanks to those dealers who have favored him with their advertising patronage during the past year, and to assure those who have not done business with him that he is prepared to demonstrate to their entire satisfaction that it would be money in their pockets to patronize him.

DIRECTORY.

It has been found impossible to classify this list by States, as many of the publishers, especially of new papers, have been very tardy in sending reports. Most of the old publishers responded very promptly to the requests for information, evidently knowing from experience the value of being correctly represented. Criticisms and corrections are invited from all. Advertisers will find the blank space opposite each paper useful for memoranda of contracts, etc.

Concerning Advertising.

Many dealers do not correctly estimate the advantage it would be to them to have their advertising done by this agency. Nor do they, in some instances at least, fully understand the methods that underly successful advertising.

In these days no dealer can hope to attain to a full measure of success in his business without persistent, continued advertising, and the very best manner of making himself known to collectors is by using the pages of the different philatelic publications.

Circulars are necessary, but for the finding out of new customers, as well as a means of retaining the interest of old ones, there is nothing quite equal to a well-written advertisement in a widely circulated paper or magazine.

No one person knows all about advertising, but with an experience of nearly fifteen years in stamp matters, and with several years experience as a special advertising agent, I feel that I may offer my services to the dealers of America with some degree of confidence.

Very few persons, in other lines of business, would think of spending large sums of money in advertising without availing themselves of the aid of an expert in such matters. The dealer's first care should be in the selection of his stock; his next to make known to the collecting fraternity what he has for sale. If he goes to the publishers direct he will soon discover that each paper "has the largest circulation," and goes to the "best collectors."

It is here that the advertising agent can be of service. Acting as an outsider his judgment is unbiased and he is in a position to advise the dealer as to the papers most likely to pay him. The actual circulation of one thousand copies per issue, which one paper actually has, may be worth to the dealer more than the five thousand which is claimed for another.

I have business relations with the publishers of all American philatelic papers and am able to quote best prices for advertising space. Dealers will find it convenient to place all of their business in my hands, for it is much easier to check up and attend to one account than to follow insertions in dozens of papers.

The saving in money, also, will be considerable, for I can always obtain the most favorable rates. I am serving many dealers at present, and shall be glad to communicate with all who intend to do any advertising the coming season.

By careful and judicious expenditures an investment of $10 per month, of even less, may be made to bring good returns. Twenty-five dollars per month could be wisely used by most dealers, and even $50 or $100 per month, during the "collecting season," say from October to April or May, would be found a most profitable investment by the dealer who has the stock to supply the demands sure to come.

It will cost nothing to write for particulars. Estimates and any desired information cheerfully furnished on request.

PHILATELIC LITERATURE.

Although many years have passed since the first publication in the interest of the science of philately was issued, we are still able to publish a list of the many Philatelic publications, which were regularly issued at stated intervals, both in this and in foreign countries; the list which the reader will find in the previous pages is as near complete as it was possible for the compiler to make it. It gives the names and particulars of all the present American Philatelic periodicals, and in the list which follows an attempt is made to give the names of all that were issued in the days gone by. By glancing over the list the reader is amazed at the vast amount of Philatelic literature this country has produced, and when that which is published in this country at the present day is compared with that published in foreign lands it will be seen that ours is of a much better and larger class. The great amount of the Philatelic Literature of the day fully demonstrates the large and rapid increase of stamp collectors.

Recently a number of collectors conceived the idea of collecting Philatelic Literature, and those interested in that pursuit will find much to interest them in this little work, inasmuch as the alphabetical list hereto appended will be of much service to determine whether such and such a periodical was issued and if so, from where. There are also instances where several periodicals had the same name but were issued from different places. There are also periodicals which were said to have been issued but never were, at least the compiler after dilligent search and inquiry cannot obtain any information about their being published; a list of such periodicals will be found in another part of this work.

There is much pleasure in a collection of Philatelic Literature, it will allow the philatelist of to-day to obtain an insight into the earlier days of philately and thereby estimate the growth in the quality of philatelic reading matter, and also of the philatelic press.

The philatelist of to-day gives more attention to philatelic literature than he did years ago, or those who preceded him did, yet there is plenty of room for improvement, and it is to be hoped that the average collector will do all in his power to help and encourage the philatelic periodicals and publications, to sustain and remain forever.

In future issues of this work the compiler will endeavor to make it more complete, and any information relating to this matter will be thankfully received by the publisher.

A Catalogue of all Philatelic Articles which have been Published.

For some time past, the subject of the compilation of a catalogue containing all the articles on Philately which have ever appeared in any Philatelic publication at present or heretofore issued has been under consideration. It was suggested by Herr Charles Diena, in an article contributed to the Philatelic Record, both in this country and in Europe, and methods and systems have been suggested.

Indeed the compilation of such a work as it is proposed would not be by any means an easy task, but would necessitate the co-operation of a large number of philatelists in various parts of the world, each of whom should be well acquainted with the philatelic literature of his particular section. The plan which I incline to is that Mr. Diena, being the originator, should oversee the entire work, and that all the Philatelic societies of the world co-operate and each society investigate the literature of its particular state, section or neighborhood, that all of the members be requested to take part in such an investigation and that the members of each society report to a committee of their society, who will prepare the list of articles and submit them to Mr. Diena. Mr. Diena upon receiving all the lists could then proceed with a corps of assistants on the compilation of the catalogue.

The plans in which the catalogue may be arranged, are many, but I think the following would be as good as any, the catalogue being divided into four parts :

FIRST PART:—Should contain all the names of the articles arranged alphabetically, the full name of the article, the full name of the author, the full name of the publication, the volume and issue numbers, the number of page and the date of issue of publication containing the article.

SECOND PART:—Should consist of the various topics on which one or more Philatelic articles have been written, arranged alphabetically, and under each topic the name of the articles, author and publication as described in the "First Part."

THIRD PART:—Should consist of the full names of all philatelic writers, arranged alphabetically, and under each name the full titles of whatever articles he has contributed to philatelic publications, the names, volume, issue, and page numbers of the publication.

FOURTH PART:—Should contain the full names of all the Philatelic Publications of the world, alphabetically arranged, and under the name of each publication the full title of each and every philatelic article contained therein, alphabetically arranged with the name of the author, volume, issue and page number and date.

The compilation of such a work would certainly take a great deal of time, but nevertheless would be one of the most useful and valuable works ever published in the interest of philately.

DEALERS,

LOOK AT THIS WONDERFUL RECORD.

Jan. 1888, 19 inches of advertising, April 1888, 62 inches of advertising.
Is not this a wonderful growth in 3 months.

HERE ARE THE CAUSES OF IT.

It has a guaranteed circulation of 1500 copies,

500 of these go to the foreign countries.

It is sent to live collectors only.

It contains all the latest and most important philatelic news.

Therefore it is carefully perused by every recipient.

It is neater in typographical appearance than any other philatelic paper published and it will show your adv. to a better advantage

And last but not least, it's adv. rates are very low.

SPECIAL PACKETS
— FOR — STAMP DEALERS.

Having had many calls from dealers for assortments of stamps for approval sheets, I have prepared the following Packets:

PACKET NO. 1,

contains stamps which will retail at over $1.50 at Scott's prices. All stamps are perfect clean specimens, and the regular retail price is marked plainly on the back of each stamp. The dealer who buys one packet is sure to order more. Pr. ea, 50 cents.

PACKET NO. 2,

contains choice stamps retailing at over $3.00.

Price, $1.00.

PACKET NO. 3,

contains an extra choice assortment of stamps retailing at nearly $20.

Price $5.00.

Trial orders are invited for these packets, and if any dealer is not satisfied he may return the stamps and his money will be refunded, together with his postage expenses. What can be finer?

THE YOUTH'S LEDGER

AN INTERESTING MONTHLY FOR THE YOUNG

HAS BEEN CHANGED TO THE COLLECTOR'S LEDGER

This paper is now one of the oldest published in the interest of collectors, and during its three years of existence, it has earned an enviable place as a representative journal.

Its contributors are all over the country and it gives none but the latest news.

ADVERTISERS

desiring a wide ~~wide~~ thru paper that reaches the buying class of collectors, are invited to try our columns.

We make no charge for a sample copy, as we know it will "take" wherever seen.

You want the paper giving

The Largest Amount of News,

as that is the one taken by collectors, and this is what has made our paper. The Ledger being published just outside of N. Y., the great stamp center, gives us unequalled facilities for obtaining all the news.

Our circulation is 2000 copies monthly, and our rates in comparison with others exceedingly low.
