OBLITERATING STAMPS.

It sometimes occurs that the Stamps on letters used to denote the places at which such have been posted are not sufficiently plain. In such cases the stamp used to obliterate the postage label may supply the information. The shape of the stamp and its number will prove the office in which it has been used. The following are fac similes of the obliterating stamp :—

Used in London District Offices and in places within their delivery.

Used in the Inland Branch of the Chief Office, London, for letters passing by the General Post.

Used in the Newspaper Branch of the Chief Office, London, for Newspapers passing by the General Post.

Used at certain places Abroad and in all places in England and Wales, except London and the London District.

Used in Scotland.

Used in Ireland.

LONDON DISTRICT.

The London District Obliterating Stamp is used at the following head offices, and branch offices in London. The letters in the stamp denoting the particular head office, or branch office, it is used at.

Eastern Central District Head Office.

Western Central District Head Office.

Northern District Head Office.

The letters at the top of the stamp denoting the particular office in which it has been used.

General Post Office,
April 1874.

the artist. Have you given the name correctly? The other picture represents Garrick in one of his characters, probably "The Farmer's Return." It may be painted by J. Zoffany. We fear the coloured lithographs are but of little value.

Panel Picture by J. Janson (H. T.).—J. Janson was a Dutch painter, who lived about the end of the eighteenth century. His works are small landscapes with figures and cattle, and are carefully painted. They sell at from £3 to £12, according to subject and quality.

Picture by Green, &c. (B. B. B.).—B. R. Green exhibited at the Royal Academy and Suffolk Street from 1832 to 1862. We do not think an unknown portrait would be of any great value. The seaports might be worth from 30s. to 40s.; but we cannot say for certain without seeing one as a specimen.

Two Drawings (J. M. R.).—The drawings you have sent are not by any known artist, and are of no value.

"Pencil Engraving by Jane Elliott (C. M. C.).—The term "pencil engraving" is new to us. You had better send the print, or drawing, or whatever it is, to our office, and we will have it examined for you.

Weary Gleaners (C. M. C.).—Leighton Brothers were lithographers, at least at a branch of their business, and the print to which you refer is no doubt of that character. It is not likely to be worth more than a shilling or two, but the actual value will depend, inter alia, upon the size. Let us look at it.

They're Saved, by H. Dawe (W. C.).—Plates by George Dawe are very scarce; those by his younger brother, Henry Edward Dawe, not particularly so. Your print is by Henry Edward, and worth perhaps 5s. We cannot say definitely unless we see it.

Two Coloured Wood-engravings (H. N.).—They are probably coloured by hand, in which case the value will be trifling. The process by which coloured prints from wood-blocks are produced is known as chiaroscuro. A number of blocks are cut, and then the colours are printed from each in turn, and the complete picture built up, so to speak, by degrees. This method is rarely employed at the present day, and that is the reason why your prints are almost certain to be coloured by hand, assuming, of course, that they really are wood-cuts. Let us look at them.

Bailed Up, by Sydney (E. C.).—It is not possible for us or anyone else to tell you the value of the print you name, unless full particulars are given. The subject has been copied to a reduced scale, and moreover you may have a proof of some kind. We shall require dimensions of the engraved surface, and a transcript of the lettering, if any. On receipt of this information and any other details that strike you as being material, we shall be able to give you an idea of the value, no doubt.

The Nemesis Destroying War Junks (J. W. S.).—You might get 10s. for this, if it is printed in colours and not coloured by hand. It is worth remembering that hand-coloured prints are, as a rule, worth no
