Ethel Roosevelt and her many Post-Cards.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt has finished her sixteenth book of post cards and she is about to begin on a collection which has come from her big sister, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who sent souvenirs almost daily while she was on the other side. The President's second daughter is quite a collector of odd trifles, but her love for the illustrated card from foreign lands amounts to enthusiasm. Hundreds and hundreds come to Mrs. Roosevelt from friends abroad, even from the consuls and diplomatic officers. Those treasures are divided between Miss Ethel and the two younger boys, who are collecting cards also. But Miss Ethel has beaten her brothers in the race, and she has one of the best set of books to be found outside of public libraries. She has several sets of war pictureries from China and Japan which will be very valuable in time to come. Then she has views of the lotus land from every conceivable point, and a hundred or more cards on the peasant types in the Orient and the American South Pacific archipelago. Five books are given to cradle lands of the race and each contains nearly 500 cards.

A Profitable Craze. The souvenir post card craze is enriching Uncle Sam and doubling the sale of one-cent stamps several times over. The craze extends all over the country, and enterprising Postmasters of Fourth-Class Offices are increasing their own remuneration by buying cards in lots and selling them at a good profit and then selling the stamps to forward them.—Postmaster Advocate Between 200,000 and 300,000 picture post cards were mailed at the Coney Island post office, Sunday, Aug. 5th 1906. This, the man in charge of the office declared, is a record for the Island, if not for the world.

TWENTY-ONE METHODS OF ACQUIRING

"THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR."

Under the above title we have just published a book that is destined to fill a long felt want. The question often arises: "What course can I pursue in order to acquire wealth easily, honorably and quickly?" The answer will be found in each of the twenty-one chapters which this book contains. Each chapter is complete in itself, and gives detailed instructions for starting and successfully conducting a practical money-making business. There is no reason why any intelligent person of either sex cannot make from $3 to $15 daily by consulting the pages of "The Almighty Dollar," and following the practical advice therein given. Read the following brief outline of

Contents by Chapters.

CHAP. I.—The biggest little business on earth for acquiring a fortune in a short time; but a few dollars capital required. CHAP. II.—A business good for $1,000 profit the first year it is operated, and $3,000 each succeeding year; $10 starts it. CHAP. III.—This business requires $2 capital, and will enable any energetic person to make from $5 to $10 daily. CHAP. IV.—A great thing for publishers and mail order dealers; yields over 1,000 per cent. profit on the capital invested. CHAP. V.—A trade anyone can learn in a day by which from 50 cents to $1 an hour may be earned. You can readily sell this information for $2. CHAP. VI.—Here's a business that will yield $250 a month if properly managed; better than a gold mine. CHAP. VII.—Tells how book-keepers, clerks and stenographers may double their income; no capital needed. CHAP. VIII.—A pleasant little business suitable for either sex; yields $2 to $3 daily on a capital of $1. CHAP. IX.—Information worth $1,000 to every horse owner; tells how to double the value of any horse in a few weeks. CHAP. X.—A business good for $25 weekly on a few dollars capital; just the thing for "quick sales and large profits." CHAP. XI.—Brains, energy and $10 cash needed to start this business; pays from $75 to $100 per month. CHAP. XII.—To anyone seeking a light and profitable manufacturing business, the information given in this chapter is worth hundreds of dollars. CHAP. XIII.—Another light manufacturing business worth $50 a week to agent and mail order men; something new and novel. CHAP. XIV.—A sure winner; can be made to yield a net profit of $35 weekly on a capital of only $5. CHAP. XV.—Here's another enterprise good for $10 a day that can be started on a capital of $5 or $10. CHAP. XVI.—Tells how young men and young women may obtain permanent positions at regular salaries ranging from $50 to $200 per month. CHAP. XVII.—A capital of only $2 needed to start this business yielding from $6 to $8 net profit daily. CHAP. XVIII.—A light manufacturing business suitable for either sex; good for $3 to $5 a day on $1 capital. CHAP. XIX.—Another first-class money-getting proposition; yield an income of $2 daily the year round. Only $3 capital needed. CHAP. XX.—This is a mail order business requiring but a few dollars capital; unlimited field and enormous profits. CHAP. XXI.—Last, but not least—a light and profitable little business that can be started in any locality on $1 capital. Give it a trial.

The foregoing brief summary of contents should prove conclusively the great value of this wonderful book. It is handsomely illustrated, neatly printed on excellent paper and substantially bound. No such complete and valuable work on the art of money getting has ever before been issued. While it would be cheap at $5, in order to place it within the reach of all, the price has been fixed at only Fifty Cents.

Mailed postpaid to any address on receipt of price.

Special—A $1.00 book for only 25c. while they last.

JOHN S. WETZEL, 112-114 Lawrence St., NEW YORK CITY.

Why I Collect View Cards.

Most of the post card collectors, at the present time are collecting more view cards than any other kind. This is proved from the numerous exchange postal advertisements in the papers in which the "ads" are stated view cards exchanged.

The souvenir view card is usually beautiful. It gives some pretty, significant scene of the county from which it comes, as well as some wording of the language.

It is a genuine pleasure to take out your card collection on a rainy day or night and study them over. Would you find enough enjoyment in studying a plain card collection? You glance at the card, note the country it came from and that's all. Souvenir card dealers do not often advertise common foreign cards for sale. There is, however, some exceptions to this for instance, where a private collection or the like is for sale. They mostly advertise picture post cards. To substantiate this fact, refer to a number of the Bulletin and see how many dealers offer plain cards for sale. Some view cards are instructive, others reproduce a noted river, city, monument, park, county, or any other place where some important event has occur.

The above reasons are mainly the ones why I collect and prefer the view cards to all others. I think the other card collectors agree with me and confirm my statements.—Lionel E Mintz.

Collectors should always return as good cards as received, and if they wish to establish themselves in good graces of their correspondents, they might send cards just a little prettier!

One should also answer all cards as promptly as possible. I do not mean by this to keep up a "hot exchange" back and forth, but to reply at least three or four days after receipt of card.—Ed.

Join the American Post Card Exchange, and you will receive view post cards from everywhere.

"CUSHING" BOILED DOWN

An A B C Guide to Parliamentary Law. Based on the highest authorities, and adapted to general use.

No person can be expected to know everything, but every person should know some things to enable him to take a part in the ordinary affairs of life. In these days of clubs, societies, and organizations for social, religious, philanthropic, political—in short, for all sorts of purposes—some knowledge of Parliamentary Law is absolutely essential to enable a man to hold his own among his fellows. He may be as wise as Solomon, as energetic as Alexander, ingenious to devise plans for promoting the welfare and happiness of man, without a knowledge of the rules that must govern organization and deliberation, his wisdom and his energy will be unavailable and his honest purposes come to naught. These rules have been universally adopted because they are necessary to facilitate the proceedings, and make organization effective. Without them an association of men would be a mere mob. It is only by following them strictly that confusion can be avoided, the opinion of the individual find expression and the will of the majority reached. Next to possessing a full knowledge of these rules, the essential thing is to have them at hand, in so convenient a form that it can be referred to instantly. CUSHING BOILED DOWN is exactly what is wanted. It contains the Complete Parliamentary Code, so arranged that one can find the particular information he needs at a glance. A Thumb Index makes it perfect for reference, and it is so compact that it can be carried in the vest pocket. A model Constitution and model By-Laws are added, which may be followed or modified to suit any character of organization. They all say this book fills a long felt want. We guarantee thorough satisfaction in every particular or money refunded. Containing 120 pages, size 3 $\frac{3}{4}$  x 2 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches. Bound in Russia, 25 cents, seal 40 cents, postpaid.

Postmaster Wilcox, of Chicago, has been excluding from the mails souvenir post cards which his office decides are "designed to reflect on character." The two H's, Hughes and Hearst, who had been making the race for Governor in New York, with "Haven and Hell" printed over each, as the purchaser desired, had been going through the mails in great quantities. The Chicago Postmaster was the first to stop them.

A Post Card Party.

A certain young lady in New York, planned and successfully carried out a most novel entertainment for her friends. The invitations were sent out on post cards in blue and white Dutch figures. The appointed night found a merry crowd of young people with just enough mystery in the air to promise a very jolly evening.

The guests were seated four at a table and each one was given a blank post card and pencil and told to either sketch or describe an original post card, and prizes were to be given out to the one who designed the most clever and original post card. At a given signal each guest sketched an original card, and a clever selection they were.

A young lady won first prize with a post card entitled "Does cupid cut any ice with you?" which depicted Cupid chopping a block of ice in the center of which was a heart. The reflection of a bachelor" portraying a man smoking a pipe and looking into a mirror, won first prize among the men.

In one corner of the room was a miniature post office, with a dainty little maiden of sixteen as postmistress, who gave out post-cards to each one present. The guests were served a four course luncheon at Daly's, and in the center of the table was the most unique feature of the evening, which was a large box on the top of which the words 'post card' were formed by tiny electric lights. From this box narrow ribbons of different colors found their way to each plate. The guests were told to pull the ribbons and 'prsto' a beautiful post card appeared at the other end of the ribbons.— M. A. Barrett.

When any company comes to the house, bring out the bank and they will read the words on the top and drop a penny in it every time, and when they push the button, you will see some pretty lively dancing right away, and the dancing will be done by the one who pushes the button, as they will receive a shock that they will not forget soon. ## DOES THIS APPLY TO YOU?

Well, now, is it possible that at last I have found what I have long sought? I have stumbled into it. It has been forced upon me—I did not seek it. It is like drawing a prize in a Lottery. We know but what this really is the true stepping-stone to a future fortune. Every one has a critical moment in their lives but they do not always know it. Why? Because they are not always on the alert. They settle down to the conviction that they never will be Rich, and when such a chance as this comes before them they think it is not intended for THEM. It is for someone else. It was a mistake that it was sent them—it was intended for some one in the next house—it could not be for me. Reader, from this moment banish every such thought from your mind. THIS IS FOR YOU. Now is YOUR TIME. This will lead you to something that is just as sure to pave your way to fortune as that you now exist. You cannot afford to pass it by. You are the one that this chance appeals to. YOU are the lucky individual that the sun shines upon now. A bright future is yours if you stretch out your hand and grasp the Golden Key that unlocks the Vault that opens to your astonished gaze the hidden treasure. I am able to do something for myself. If I do not do it now what shall I do it? I have tried many things that appeared as if I was going to get ahead; after I gave them what appeared to me as a trial, I had to abandon them, because I could not make my own living or support my family. Forty things I can mention—of course, some of them I might have known would not benefit me financially, but I thought I would try them and see what would come out of it—Oh! how disappointed I have been. This thing will test. It costs me but One Dollar to send and get the Book of 300 Pages. I certainly can loose nothing. Almost any one can pay me what this Book costs, even if I make no use of it at all.

The cloth bound book looks like this.

learning its secrets. This Book is not for all eyes to see unless they pay for it—therefore it should not be carelessly where any one can take a copy of some very valuable Secret without the permission of the owner. One lady writes to know whether we object to her asking three friends to club in with her at 25 cents each—making $1.00 in all, we do not object. In that way you can all read the Book and have access to it any time when it really only costs you 25 cents each.

It is well to Register all Letters containing Money, or send a Money Order. Please write your full address, plainly.
